During the week Fr. Maher will speak to boarders at 7 p.m., Fr. Dunnigan will preach the novena to day students following the 12:40 p.m. Mass.

Music Chairman Discloses Bands

by Pete Ferran

Three of the nation's top ten trombonists and one of the leading college Dixieland groups in the East will highlight the Junior Prom Weekend, April 24-26.

Music chairman Roger K. Soderberg, '60, announced today that the Prom will feature the music of Urbie Green and his orchestra Saturday night, while the Kai Winding Septet will entertain weary Prom-goers Sunday afternoon. The Yale Bull Pups will kick off the weekend with a jazz concert and dance on Friday night.

Urbie Green, before forming his band two years ago, was lead trombonist for Benny Goodman, and fronted the band overseas. After a year abroad, he continued his busy studio work, appearing on the shows of Jackie Gleason and Ed Sullivan. During this time, Goodman chose Green to play the trombone solos in the sound-track of "The Benny Goodman Story."

Prior to this period of studio work, he played with many of the most popular jazz and recording bands, first with Woody Herman, then with

Former Wisconsin U. Dean Gives Alpha Sigma Nu Talk

Dr. Helen C. White, former chairman of the English department at the University of Wisconsin, spoke yesterday afternoon at a "coffee hour" sponsored by Alpha Sigma Nu.

Dr. White, who is a visiting professor at Harvard University this semester, dealt with college teaching from the prospective teacher's point of view. In her talk and the discussion which followed, topics ranged from salary to pure scholarship.

Dr. White made it emphatic that "teaching is not just something to keep you going; if a teacher does not take his subject and students seriously, he shouldn't be in a classroom."

When a member of the audience introduced the subject of salary, Dr. White admitted that "it's something I've been interested in for quite a while." Even though there are discrepancies between salary and worth, she thinks that "proper progress will be slow and uneven."

As a member of the American Association of University Professors, she pointed out that this board works for the welfare and betterment of the financial status of teachers.

Dr. White discounted the notion that a professor is at a disadvantage in a small college. "It is nonsense to discriminate between a college and university professor, because the teacher must be judged by how much good he is accomplishing."

She defined "advice" as "what you wish you had done," and then advised students to "take advantage of foreign language courses and to do as much general reading as possible."

Dr. White concluded on the note that "the recent furor over science should not lead us from the fact that social sciences and literature need many outstanding men."

Dean Issues List Of Top Scholars; Glynn, '62, Leads With 95.7 Average

Reverend John J. Long, S.J., Dean of Studies, today announced the names of the students attaining the highest scholastic averages for the first semester.

Gregory C. Glynn, '62, led the student body with a 95.73 average. John T. Onuska, Jr., topped the Senior Class with 94.94; John M. Greaney led the Junior Class with 94.64, and Thomas A. McCarthy headed the Class of '61 with a 92.64 average.

Onuska, a resident of Port Chester, N. Y., is enrolled in the A.B. English honors program and has been a Dean's List student for four years. He is an assistant editor of the Purple, a member of Delta Epsilon Sigma, and the secretary-treasurer of the Aquinas Academy. In addition, he is a member of the Cross and Scroll Society, a regular NROTC student, and was a co-director of the Apple-sauce Society's production of "When in Rome."

Greaney, an A.B. classics major, makes his home in Westfield, Mass. A Dean's List student for five semesters, he received an appointment to the Alpha Sigma Nu Honor Fraternity this year. Greaney is a member of the CCD and the Sodality.

McCarthy, a B.S. math major from Springfield, Mass., is a member of the CCD and the Math Club.

Glynn, the valedictorian of his graduating class at Vincentian Institute in Albany, N. Y., is a B.S. physics major. He is now a member of the Sanctuary Society and the Crusader Marching Band.

Blazer Committee Approves Design For New Emblem

The Student Congress last Wednesday night approved a new crest for the school blazer.

The new crest is a silver scheme consisting of a Spanish cross emblazoned with the words "Holy Cross." Above the cross is a scroll bearing the motto of the college, "In Hoc Signo Vinces."

Robert Rollins Blazers, Inc., will feature the new crest on the blazers, which will go on sale Tuesday, March 3, in the D. O., from 10:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Blazer Committee

The Blazer Committee of the Congress, under the direction of Edward J. McAdams, '60, and composed of representatives of each of the four classes, considered approximately 25 designs. The committee incorporated the best ideas of the selections and arrived at the final product.

The blazers offered to the students will feature other innovations besides the new crest. In addition to the style of coat now offered, a low-priced budget style and an ivy-league style give wider selection. Students may purchase a pocket patch separately.

The three styles will be of the same color, navy blue, and of the same material. The only changes will be in the cut of the jacket and in the price.

A Boarder's College

For 1,400 boarding students, Holy Cross is a full-time existence. From Mass in the morning until the prefect's corridor check at night almost all the boarder's activities can be classified as part of Holy Cross life. The greater part of the day is, of course, taken up with classes and with class work, but, in addition, Kimball, the gym, the library, and extra-curricular activities are all inescapable aspects of campus life. They are all included when the boarder says, "I go to Holy Cross."

But there are 400 others who also "go to Holy Cross"—the day hops. These men attend classes with the boarding students. They do the same work in the same courses, and they receive the same degrees. But in a large sense, there the similarity ends. When classes are over each afternoon, a different aspect of Holy Cross life begins for the boarders; for the commuters, however, Holy Cross is over for the day. Homework is, in most cases, the only link with college after class hours.

Commuter

Exodus

Now it is obvious that by his very nature the day hop will never be as absorbed in the daily routine of Holy Cross as his boarding counterpart. It is simply a matter of two different kinds of life. Still we feel that many elements of college life on this campus are open to the day student, many elements which are conspicuous for their lack of day student participation. In particular, we feel that the "professional" extra-curricular activities have much to offer the college student. It is regrettable that a student, preparing for a future career, limits himself exclusively to the academic area.

There are obvious reasons for this. Many hold part-time jobs and even those who don't are bound to have outside interests. However, the main obstacle is the schedules of the various activities. It is a definite inconvenience for a student to go home at the end of the class day and return at night, considering the time-consuming travel involved, and the disruption of study and meal schedules.

A compromise has to be reached in the scheduling even though the present one is necessarily designed for the resident majority. We propose a concerted attempt by activity heads to hold meetings during the afternoon. While afternoon classes present a major obstacle, certain activities have in the past made allowance for evening conflicts by convening before the evening meal.

Admittedly this isn't the solution to the entire problem. The campus organization whose membership is largely comprised of residents is not solely to blame. Nine-to-Five Students The commuting student, with some inconvenience, can participate, as do those who commute to metropolitan colleges and remain active in student organizations. The opportunities for obtaining rewarding experiences and contributing significantly to the organizations themselves are available, and they have only to be taken advantage of by the interested student.

L. George Morton Offers Criticism On Motion Picture Academy Awards

L. George Morton, as you know, is the Worcester bartender who has created such a stir recently with his attacks on the Motion Picture Academy. Last week we managed to obtain an interview with the famous founder of the neo-new criticism for motion pictures. L. George, or Lee, as he likes to be called privately, was already talking when we arrived.

"... have it all wrong, uh, Hollywood that is." He was speaking of the Academy Awards which are coming up next month.

(Lee became interested in the Academy when Kim Novak's strap broke before fifty million home viewers during the presentations last year.)

Not only does he disagree with the nominations announced, but he doesn't even like the categories. "People get tired of that same old stuff—you know what I mean, fella?"

I asked what he meant.

"A few new ideas or a little new blood or something like that—you know what I mean, fella? That's what brought back the roller derby."

His enemies have attacked him on the grounds that his criticism is not constructive. Did he have any answer to that?

He certainly did, he guessed. He proposed the following awards:

Year's Finds, Best Lost: Lilo Pulver and John Gavin.

Mother of the Year: Jayne Mansfield.

Least Understood Picture: The Seventh Seal.

Best Understood Picture: Peyton Place.

Most Talked About Picture: The Seventh Seal.

Most Overlooked Picture: The Key.

Most Realistic Picture: Any current western where the dialogue could only take place at a Greenwich Village cocktail party, (e.g., "All my life I've wanted to belong"; or, "I've found you can't run away from yourself.")

Most Antiseptic Love Affair: Pat Boone — Christine Carere in Mardi Gras.

Best Marquee Ad (West 42nd Street, New York): Elizabeth Taylor in "Elephant Walk"; Eddie Fisher-Debbie Reynolds in "Bundle of Joy."

Best Adaptation of a Book: "Enchanted Island" (with Dana Andrews and Jane Powell), based on Melville's "Typee"—"He dared to marry a cannibal princess!" read the ads.

Mr. Morton thought that this was enough for any man to offer. We readily agreed and beat a hasty retreat.

Amateur Radio Society Gives Elementary Theories Course

Jeff Landau and Pete Fazio contact fellow "ham" operators.

The Amateur Radio Society is currently sponsoring a training program designed particularly for freshmen midshipmen and open to all those interested in learning the fundamentals of radio theory and the intricacies of Morse Code transmission.

One compelling benefit of this radio course is that it fulfills the Navy I term paper requirement.

The program consists of class sessions held twice a week in the lower Alumni radio central. Beginning with Morse Code instruction, the course runs through transmission techniques and decoding practice. The final weeks will be devoted to surveying elementary radio theory.

Lt. Edward F. Havel, USN, is overseeing the instruction while relying on the able guidance of the Society's professionals.

Students finishing the training program will receive a Novice Class license entitling them to transmit on certain frequencies on the amateur band. The next step on the road of CQ-ing is the general class license which permits the bearer to tie up with all the amateur frequencies.

The ARS was organized in 1920 and suffered an intermittent existence until five years ago when the Navy bestowed a boon in the form of a consignment of equipment. Within the last two years the NROTC unit administration has assumed a protectorate over the society.

One little known service performed by the society is its toll-free message transmitting service which it offers to any student. Such a message can be sent to any point in the continental United States, received by a ham in that area and telephoned to the proper recipient.

Letter:

Dear Sir,

In reference to the article found in The Congressional entitled "News Brief," I would like to question the reason for which the First Annual High School Weekend was held. It was said that the reason for this weekend was "the increasing pressure of atheism, agnosticism, and materialism upon the high school students today." The article also states that the schools invited were "the finest Catholic secondary schools in the East and Midwest." Why on earth invite those who are most likely least affected by atheism, agnosticism, and materialism? It seems to me that these boys, or any boys in high school, should already realize "The Value of a Catholic College Education." I would think that this weekend should be aimed at those who have not had the benefit of "the finest Catholic secondary schools." I believe that much greater success would be attained if this weekend was pointed toward Catholic students in public high schools.

Sincerely,

Richard S. Ritzel, Jr., '62

Sneak Previews 'Buccaneer, Brides'

by Barry Gault

Date: February 28.

Title: "The Buccaneer."

Cast: Yul Brynner, Claire Bloom, Charlton Heston.

Plot: Yul Brynner, sporting a startling head of almost red hair, struts and worries in the worn role of Jean Lafitte, a misunderstood pirate from hot, humid Louisiana. Yul doesn't go in much for sword play, but he spouts a lot of hot, humid rhetoric, is misused by Gen. Andrew Jackson, played by (no kidding now) Charlton Heston, and does his best to help out the good old U.S.A. in the War of 1812. America is ungrateful, however, and finally, Yul sails disenchanting away toward the Caribbean with hot, humid Claire Bloom, a fetching actress as shown in better roles.

Comment: Not so hot.

Date: February 27.

Title: "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

Cast: Howard Keel, Jane Powell.

Plot: The mating season comes with a vengeance for seven biblically named brothers played mostly by members of a New York ballet company. They swoop down from the mountain in nimble style, and in an adroitly fantastic revision, the Sabine women of rape fame become the seven "sobbin'" women led by lacrymose Jane Powell. Hollywood's finest choreographer, Michael Kidd, is responsible for the flamboyant strategy by which the boisterous brothers carry off their shrieking catches and Winchester is responsible for the septuple wedding that resolves this musical's difficulties.

Comment: Yes.

HUSBANDS, ANYONE?

It has been alleged that coeds go to college for the sole purpose of finding husbands. This is, of course, an infamous canard, and I give fair warning that, small and spongy as I am, anybody who says such a dastardly thing when I am around had better be prepared for a sound thrashing!

Girls go to college for precisely the same reasons as men do: to broaden their horizons, to lengthen their vistas, to drink at the fount of wisdom. But if, by pure chance, while a girl is engaged in these meritorious pursuits, a likely looking husband should pop into view, why, what's wrong with that? Eh? What's wrong with that?

The question now arises, what should a girl look for in a husband? A great deal has been written on this subject. Some say character is most important, some say background, some say appearance, some say education. All are wrong.

The most important thing—bar none—in a husband is health. Though he be handsome as Apollo and rich as Croesus, what good is he if he just lies around all day accumulating bedsores?

The very first thing to do upon meeting a man is to make sure he is sound of wind and limb. Before he has a chance to sweet-talk you, slap a thermometer in his mouth, roll back his eyelids, yank out his tongue, rap his patella, palpate his thorax, ask him to straighten out a horseshoe with his teeth. If he fails these simple tests, phone for an ambulance and go on to the next prospect.

If, however, he turns out to be physically fit, proceed to the second most important requirement in a husband. I refer to a sense of humor.

A man who can't take a joke is a man to be avoided. There are several simple tests to find out whether your prospect can take a joke or not. You can, for example, slash his tires. Or burn his "Mad" comics. Or steal his switchblade. Or turn loose his pet raccoon. Or shave his head.

After each of these good-natured pranks, laugh gaily and shout "April Fool!" If he replies, "But this is February nineteenth," or something equally churlish, cross him off your list and give thanks you found out in time.

But if he laughs silverly and calls you "Little minx!" put him to the next test. Find out whether he is kindly.

The quickest way to ascertain his kindness is, of course, to look at the cigarette he smokes. Is it mild? Is it clement? Is it humane? Does it minister tenderly to the psyche? Does it coddle the synapses? Is it a good companion? Is it genial? Is it bright and friendly and full of dulcet pleasure from cockerow till the heart of darkness?

Is it, in short, Philip Morris?

If Philip Morris it be, then clasp the man to your bosom with hoops of steel, for you may be sure that he is kindly as a summer breeze, kindly as a mother's kiss, kindly to his very marrow.

And now, having found a man who is kindly and healthy and blessed with a sense of humor, the only thing that remains is to make sure he will always earn a handsome living. That, fortunately, is easy. Just enroll him in engineering. © 1959, Max Shulman

For filter smokers the Philip Morris Company makes Marlboro, the cigarette with better "makin's." New improved filter and good rich flavor. Soft pack or flip-top box. A lot to like!

Sodality Lecturer Emphasizes Love As Mental Cure

"We believe what cures people is not shock treatments, but love and kindness," said Dr. Jesse Pitts, speaking to a meeting of the Sodality yesterday evening on "The Role of the Volunteer in Mental Hospitals."

"The most important duty of a volunteer is to help the patient feel an equality with other people and believe he is no longer an enemy of society."

"The volunteer is most important in re-establishing a fraternal relationship between the patient and the outside world. He gives the patient understanding and respect," Dr. Pitts said.

The volunteer makes "the hospital keep itself honest." He keeps the staff alert because as an "outsider" he notices any faults which may creep into the hospital's procedure. He also gives the staff moral support by stimulating greater interest in its work.

A native of Palestine, O., Dr. Pitts is presently consultant in sociology at the Worcester State Hospital and a member of the Federal Mental Health and Illness Joint Commission. He received his education in France, receiving his A.B. in 1938. In 1957 he received a Ph.D. from Harvard University.

Fr. F. Lawlor, S.J., To Conduct 'Day' For Sodality Here

Joseph X. Loftus, '59, prefect of the Sodality, announced this week that Reverend Francis X. Lawlor, S.J., will give a Day of Recollection on Sunday, March 1.

The day will begin with an exercise at 9 a.m., followed by another at 10 a.m. Fr. Lawlor will then celebrate Mass in the Lady Chapel at 11 a.m. Afternoon exercises are at 1:30 and 3:00 p.m.

After teaching at Holy Cross as a scholastic, Fr. Lawlor went to the Gregorian University in Rome where he taught theology and received his doctorate. For the last 15 years he has taught dogmatic theology at Weston College.

Fr. Lawlor made his ordination vows in 1942, and two years later came to Weston Seminary to act in his present capacity.

Concerning the exercises, Loftus said, "Attendance at the Day of Recollection is not limited to members of the Sodality. The entire student body is invited and urged to attend."

Prelude Chairman Announces Soph-Frosh Weekend Plans

Louis D. Cox, '61, chairman of the Prom Prelude, announced this week the sophomore-freshman schedule of social events over the Junior Prom Weekend.

On Friday night, the Sophomore Class will hold a dance at the Elks' Lodge in Worcester. This dance is open only to sophomores and freshmen.

The Holy Cross St. James Society, directed by John W. Gainor, '59, will provide "dance music with a progressive upbeat."

Saturday afternoon, the sophomores will sponsor an informal picnic at Dean Park in Worcester. Student waiters will serve hotdogs and hamburgers cooked over an open barbecue pit.

Cox explained that the Sophomore Class organizes its own activities for the weekend "to provide social functions for the two classes exclusively. This is necessary because underclassmen traditionally do not attend any Junior Class function of the weekend except the Prom."

As an innovation this year, freshmen will serve on the committees for the various events.

Freshmen representatives will contact their corridor mates and explain the procedure that they should follow in order to participate in the various events of the weekend.

NROTC Unit Takes First Prize In HC Blood Drive Competition

Jay R. Massey, '60, co-chairman of the Blood Drive, announced this week that the Third Platoon of the First Company of the NROTC detachment took first place in the ROTC blood drive with an 83.3% participation. John T. Onuska, '59, is platoon leader.

The platoon received tickets to the Holy Cross-Boston College basketball game in the Worcester Auditorium next Wednesday night. The Athletic Association donated the tickets.

Of 420 appointments, 287 students, faculty members and ROTC officers appeared to donate blood. Due to the presence of colds, flu, etc., only 173 actually gave blood.

Of a possible 342, 215 NROTC students appeared for their appointments giving them a 62.9 participation percentage. The AFROTC participation percentage was 36.7 as 72 of a possible 196 students volunteered to give blood.

The NROTC battalion won the plaque offered by the Red Cross for the best percentage in the ROTC blood drive. This is the third consecutive year that the NROTC unit placed first in the ROTC campus competition.

The article containing results of the scholarship drive printed on page one of last week's edition cited Wheeler V as the corridor making the largest contribution. The actual corridor with the highest over-all total was Wheeler IV. They ranked second behind Fenwick East in average per man.

Jr. Prom Also To Feature Yale 'Bull Pups', Kai Winding Septet In Weekend Schedule

These years of topflight band and studio work earned him a ninth place in the top ten jazz trombone ratings in the 1956 Downbeat Reader's Poll. In a further indication of his growing stature as a steady performer, Downbeat placed him eighth in 1957 and seventh in 1958.

Kai Winding and his Septet, a group featuring four trombones and three rhythm instruments, will provide waking music on Sunday afternoon, April 26. Winding has been a consistent Downbeat Reader's Poll winner since 1947, placing second from 1947-1954 and third from 1955-1958.

The Septet also features Carl Fontana, fifth ranking jazz trombonist, and Wayne Andre, both Stan Kenton alumni.

From 1949 to 1954, Winding played America's top night clubs with his own group, alongside such men as Gerry Mulligan and Max Roach.

Then in 1954 he teamed up with J. J. Johnson to form the J & K Quintet, a group which produced five top-selling LP's within a year.

Friday night, April 24, will find Prom-goers listening to the Yale Bull Pups. The Bull Pups, an undergraduate Dixieland group led by Mike Mallory, have played the major colleges in the East during the last two years.

Dartmouth, UConn Triumph; Season's Record Now 12-11

by Paul Robbins

The slumping Holy Cross basketball fortunes hit a season low when the team dropped their third straight, and eighth in the last eleven games, Tuesday night at Hanover, N.H. The Dartmouth Indians whipped the Crusaders, 81-64. Prior to this loss, UConn took a heartbreaker Saturday night as they won, 71-69.

The Cross jumped off to an early 7-3 lead behind the shooting of Denny Noschese and George Blaney. Ralph Brandt added a free throw to the spurt.

At this point Rudy LaRusso took over. His six baskets, plus some nifty shooting and ball handling by Dave Gavitt, shot the Green into a 36-26 halftime lead.

LaRusso continued his torrid pace in the second 20 minutes as the home squad lead rose as high as 21 points. Only the shooting of Blaney kept HC in the game.

Kaufman Stopped

Once again Blaney did a fine defensive job on Chuck Kaufman, holding him to a mere two baskets.

Blaney's 24 points and "Bucky" Imwalle's 10 markers led the Purple, while LaRusso's 28 tallies and 22 rebounds took game honors.

Last Saturday night the Crusaders lost another foul shooting contest, as UConn triumphed, 71-69. The Blue outshot the Crusaders from the charity stripe, 25-17.

The Cross sped to a 31-24 lead with five minutes left in the half, but the Huskies rallied to cut the bulge to 38-35 at intermission.

Ralph Brandt led HC in the first 20 minutes with an 18-point output. He eventually finished as game's high scorer with 27.

The second half was a nip-and-tuck affair as the lead changed hands ten times. The Huskies opened a 67-63 lead with 53 seconds left.

With 33 seconds left the Crusaders had battled back to a 68-67 deficit. At this point Bob Countryman cashed in on two free throws.

A Blaney jumper once again cut the lead to a point, 70-69. With six seconds left, John Pipczynski hit on the first of two free tosses.

The sparkling Brandt snared the latter's rebound, whirled around, and heaved a court-length pass to Blaney. A hurried seven-foot jumper, with Pipczynski bearing down on him, skimmed off the front of the rim at the buzzer.

Purple To Face Friars, Eagles; '59 Basketball Season Closes

by Bob O'Connell

The Holy Cross basketball quintet closes out the 1958-1959 hardwood season this week at the Worcester Auditorium as it engages Providence College, New England's top basketball power, tomorrow night and Boston College in a rematch next Wednesday.

Providence will come into town sporting a highly respectable 16-4 record and with a bid to the National Invitational Tournament in their pockets. The Friars boast impressive wins over BC, BU and NYU and a one-point decision over nationally ranked St. Bonaventure.

Barry In 39th Season As Batterymen Report

On Tuesday afternoon, in the Holy Cross Fieldhouse, Coach Jack Barry initiated his 39th season as head baseball coach as he sent out the call for battery candidates. Although the coach will face many problems this season, including his depleted squad of pitchers and catchers, he warned against throwing too hard. He said, "We're here to loosen up arms, not to decide who'll be on the squad."

Heading the list of pitchers were senior veterans Jim Farino and Bob Defino. Both Farino and Defino, along with Hal Deitz, who hurled the Crusaders into third place in the NCAA College World Series at Omaha, are being tabbed as the workhorses for this year's varsity nine. The only junior pitcher on the squad is Gary Nelson.

Among the sophomore hurlers to report were Gene Malinowski, a righthander, and John Kulevich, a lefty who did most of the pitching for the freshman nine last year. Also among the candidates were Barry Bocklett, Jim Sheehan and Tom Riley, all sophs.

Lone Returnee

In the catching department, only one returning varsity catcher was present. Junior Tom Cassin, used sparingly by Coach Barry, figures to see quite a bit of action. Two fine sophomore catchers, Tom Cusick and John Allen, are also expected to fill the gaps in that department.

With the depletion of the ranks through graduation and the signing of professional contracts by this year's seniors, the sophomores are being counted on heavily for starting positions.

Finding a replacement for Deitz on the mound staff and a new first line catcher are only two of the coach's problems. He's also lost his first baseman, his second base combination, his center fielder and left fielder from last year's fine team.

Independent Sextet Drops First Game To Engineers, 6-4

Last Tuesday night the Holy Cross Independents, a group of students banded together to play hockey, dropped a 6-4 squeaker to Worcester Tech at the Worcester Arena.

The Independents jumped to a 1-0 lead over the Engineers in the opening minute of the game on an unassisted goal by junior Kenny Keyes. Tech came right back on goals by Brad Hosmer and Lee Courtamanche to take over the lead, 2-1.

Freshman Jack Kelleher tied the score for Holy Cross at 10:13 of the first period, but a goal by Ralph Smith with 1:50 left put WPI in the lead for good.

Keyes led the way for the Purple with an unassisted goal and three assists. Jack Kelleher scored twice, and Jack Fisher added the final tally.

The squad, which is playing under the auspices of the HC Outing Club, is composed primarily of freshmen molded around a group of veteran upperclassmen. Most of these veterans were members of last year's hockey team which was dropped for lack of support.

Starting at the wing positions are Fisher and Kelleher. Keyes holds down the center, while Ray McGuire is the goalie.

The Team

Len Wilkens, a speedy junior, comprises the second half of the PC offensive punch. Wilkens was an All-East selection last year and has been the bulwark of the squad this season. The height of the Providence team is centered in 6' 5" Jim Woods. He has performed well against taller opponents and keeps the defense honest with his inside scoring touch. Pete Schementi, a 6' 6" senior, is an effective complement to Woods in the rebound department. Rounding out the starting five is Captain Jim Swartz, a fine outside shot.

Sellout

The PC rooters have purchased more than 1,000 tickets to Saturday night's fray in the Auditorium, and are trying to secure more for what promises to be a complete sellout.

On Wednesday evening the Crusaders wind up everything with a vital rematch against BC. In the opening game of the season, the Eagles crushed the Crusaders, 72-63, in an awesome display of court power.

In the rematch Wednesday night, BC will be without the services of two of their early season star performers, Kevin Loughery and Frank McArdle. However, the Eagles are far from powerless. Captain John Magee has pulled the club together and made them a feared New England power. Since their last meeting with Holy Cross the Eagles have compiled a 16-8 slate.

Mural Action Hot As League Races Draw Near Close

During the past week the Fieldhouse floorboards have thumped to some snappy intramural play.

Thursday, February 19, saw a sharp-shooting O'Kane IV quintet bound forward in the Western Loop with an impressive 54-42 triumph over Beaven II. The strong board work and deadly dunking of Jackie Szeigis as he crashed home 26 markers, on the afternoon, blazed the Frosh five to a 28-20 intermission bulge. The Irish duet, featuring Flanagan with 20 and Sullivan with ten, chimed in to pace the fruitless Beaven assault.

Hanselman II locked jaws with a scrappy Wheeler II club in a wire-tight tussle and came out with the short end of the bone, 30-34. John Allen netted 17 to steal scoring honors. The final contest of the day produced a romp as the Off-Campus Frosh, sparked by Ellis and Allard, steamed over Fenwick East, 43-22.

Close Battle

The Tuesday afternoon slate opened with another fingernail battle. Here the Worcester Seniors squeezed past a hustling Champion crew, 37-36. Colby's Tell-like marksmanship garnered 19 to check the combined Champion thrust. A powerful second half burst swept the Alumni I aggregation to a devastating 49-34 conquest of Hanselman IV. While an outsized, out-manned Biff Flanagan picked the boards clean, fast Frank Pauli displayed some stellar floor play and dumped in 14 tallies to boot. Long and lean Bobby Leyden, hotly pursued by McGratty, led the Hit Parade with 15 points.

In a closely matched Northern fray Wheeler I met the hoopsters from Alumni III head-on. The massive re-

Purple Pennings

by Cory McQuillen, Sports Editor

In 1956, thirty-four thousand odd fans jammed into Fenway Park to watch the annual football spectacular between Holy Cross and Boston College. Four years ago the Crusader basketball team played before a standing-room-only crowd every time it faced an opponent at the Worcester Auditorium. In the 1930's, thirty thousand people watched the Eagles and the Crusaders clash on the Fitton Field diamond.

These facts and figures are now seen only in record books. The attendance at Holy Cross sports functions has been cut down to a mere trickle of what it was in former times.

Only once during the football season was Fitton Field filled to near capacity, and that was for the Syracuse game. The Crusaders played three more home games last season and the average attendance at each was 11,000. The fact that Holy Cross was under consideration for a bowl bid right up to the Penn State game seems to have had little or no effect on the number of tickets sold.

Good Road Crowds . . .

Yet in four of its five away games the Crusader eleven played before capacity or near capacity crowds. At Pittsburgh, the largest audience ever to watch a Holy Cross football game filled Pitt Stadium. Of the 14,000 fans in Dartmouth's stadium only about a thousand were from HC, and the greater part of these were alumni. Similar occurrences were repeated at Beaver Field and Alumni Stadium in Boston.

The basketball season was marked by what could be one of the poorest showings of interest in the school's history. The Purple has played nine games at the Auditorium, and each time the number of viewers was less than the game before. When the high-riding BU Terriers made their annual appearance here a week ago, they played before an audience of approximately 1,100.

So far this season, the Purple have played thirteen games on the road. Eight times they performed in a fieldhouse or auditorium in which there were only a few empty seats. The fieldhouses at Boston College, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Pittsburgh and Niagara were jammed. As usual, the Syracuse War Memorial was a near sellout. When the Crusaders faced the Redmen from St. John's the greater part of Madison Square Garden's seats were taken. Visual evidence of such audiences was offered on the TV screens on February 7 at the Mountaineer fieldhouse where 6,500 people had gathered to watch Holy Cross and West Virginia tangle.

Why??? . . .

What is the reason for such a slip in attendance? Why is it that Holy Cross draws big everywhere except at Holy Cross? Many excuses could be offered.

It could be that the HC teams are not on the same plane as those in past years. That is not true. Holy Cross has fielded teams in recent years that could be rated on a par with many of her previous squads.

It could be that the student body does not support the teams because they are interested only in teams of championship caliber. This is not true either. The football team was under serious consideration for a bid to the Gator Bowl. This year's basketball team was tabbed as a possible at-large team in the NCAA. Last year's baseball team won the New England championship and finished third in the nation. None of these factors increased attendance.

The only possible answer to the problem of spectator participation at Holy Cross is that the student body lacks interest in the teams which the school fields. Such disinterest could be disastrous to our sports program. Everyone likes to talk about their football and basketball teams, but how can a school maintain these teams unless its own student body goes out and backs them wholeheartedly, win or lose.

Every student on the Hill wants the team to win, but how can a team win when it knows that the only people cheering for it are sitting on its own bench? Our test comes tomorrow night. The Purple quintet faces NIT-bound Providence, which is tops in New England. The Providence AA has already sold over a thousand tickets for the game. What about Holy Cross? Will you be there?

Whelan Names Hennon Top Player, Tabs North Carolina As Toughest Foe

The third and final Senior Spotlight of the season honors Jack Whelan, captain of the 1958-59 Crusaders.

Jack, a B.S. English major from Paramus, N. J., played his high school basketball at Hackensack High School in Hackensack, N. J. In his junior year, this team, led by Chet Forte and Bill McCadney, copped the County Jamboree championship. Forte went on to be an All-American at Columbia, while McCadney was a three-year star at Fordham.

Jack captained the basketball team as a senior and was selected to the All-County team in both basketball and football. His high school laurels also include the state 220-yard championship and many other fine track performances.

He was the second high scorer as a frosh on a team that posted a 12-9 record, and has improved steadily each year. As a sophomore he alternated between fifth and sixth man and finished the season with 151 points. In the first game of his junior year, "Whales" netted 20 points and grabbed 20 rebounds to cement his position as the most consistent scorer on the team. Last year he led the team with a 48.5 shooting percentage and was among the nation-wide leaders in this department.

The end of junior year brought his unanimous selection as captain, and he has fulfilled every expectation. A great floor leader with a captain's natural ability to take charge, he has used his experience to guide a primarily sophomore team over the rough spots.

"Don Hennon was unquestionably the best ball player I played against in four years," he replied in answer to our query, while North Carolina received his nomination as the top team he had faced. Jack, it might be mentioned, was the high scorer of Holy Cross' defeat by Frank McGuire's national champions of 1956-57.

Off the boards: On the same night that Holy Cross was being humbled by BU, 74-57, before 1,200 fans at the Auditorium, St. Mary's High of Worcester barrelled into the state tournament before a crowd of over 1,500 at their own gym. High school basketball draws well in Worcester.

Looking toward the future, Jack Foley looks like New England's hottest scoring prospect in quite some time. Foley has hit for 50 or better twice, 40 or better twice, and 30 or more on six occasions. He has accumulated 554 points in 17 games. This total should place him within the top five scorers in Crusader history. At present he is rolling along at a 32.7 ppg clip.

Other freshmen high scorers include rugged Dave Slattery with a 14.9 average, Ken McClory, 13.6, Billy Canavan, 12.1, and Don McLaughlin, 6.2.

An interesting item appeared in last week's Colgate Maroon. Apparently the Reverend Gannon F. Ryan, a graduate of Holy Cross, suggested at a meeting of the Central New York Alumni Association, that the Ivy League be expanded to ten teams. In all seriousness, Father Ryan suggested that Holy Cross and Colgate be the two new additions to that tweedy loop. Rather radical, to say the least.

bounding strength of giant grid tackles Leonard and Tubman with surprising ease squashed the Alumni assembly to inflict a 42-19 thrashing. Rarely afforded more than a single pop at the hoop, the overpowered club could muster in the final frame a mere pair of buckets from the field and three via the charity stripe. Pete Brogan added ten points to Tubman's 12 to provide the scoring punch.

Out in the western spaces the hands from Wheeler Bar I neatly corralled the charging Alumni III herd with a 39-29 rope. Promising diamond hurler Gene Malinowski highlighted the rodeo by pumping home 16 marks, 12 of these coming in a second half rush.

Frosh Win Two; Skein Reaches 11

by Henry Kiernan

The HC Freshman basketballers continue to add a bright note to the winter sports season on the Hill, as they defeated Dartmouth, 61-44, Tuesday night for their eleventh straight win.

Saturday the Purple frosh downed Connecticut for the second time this season, 72-64. Only Providence and BC now remain on the cub schedule. The frosh are seeking revenge on the Eaglets, one of the two clubs which have dumped them this season.

The Dartmouth club had little success against the sharp passes of the Crusaders, as their collapsing (on Foley) zone merely served to hold down the score. When they switched to a man-to-man in the second half, Jack poured in nine quick baskets, which wrapped up the ball game. Bill Canavan struck with 15 points, mostly on sharp drives.

Slattery again covered most of the rebounds for the Cross and added eight points. McClory and Don McLaughlin rounded out the starting unit, and contributed to the win with their defensive work, handling most of the playmaking when Canavan had to leave the game with an injury.

Jack Foley was again the big gun, notching 23 points, in the UConn game, and adding 30 more against the Green.

Connecticut drew a sterling performance from Len Carlson, who counted for 20, and Tom Burke, who added 15 markers.

Dave Slattery combined with Foley to clear the boards and pitched in 15 markers.

HC won from the floor, as the Purple gathered four more field goals than the Huskies, for the margin of difference.

The frosh now boast a season's mark of 15-2, and have extended their winning streak to 11 games. Jackie Foley's ppg average now stands at 32.7.

Social Work Opportunities To Be Topic Of B.C. Dean

Reverend John V. Driscoll, S.J., Dean of the Boston College School of Social Work, will speak on "The Opportunities of Social Work," in Carlin 36 on Wednesday, March 4, at 3:30 p.m. The lecture is open to all members of the student body.

Fr. Driscoll will discuss the possibilities of advancement at this time. He has said that he receives job offers from all over the United States for qualified men and is able to fill only a small percentage of the requests.

Fr. Driscoll will also stress the idea that social workers can look forward to a status equal to that of other professional men. This is due primarily to the rise of a strong professional association called the National Association of Social Workers.

He will also discuss grants and scholarship assistance offered at the BC School of Social Work. During 1958-1959, the school received over $135,000 and at present 75% of the students at the school benefit from this aid.

In connection with this, Fr. Driscoll will enumerate stipends offered by certain agencies for two-year commitments.

MOPY DICK

Call me Fishmael. Some months ago—don't trouble yourself about how many—I signed on as a deck hand aboard the charter boat Peapod, a most melancholy craft sailing out of Bay Shore, Long Island.

There are certain queer times in this patchwork quilt we call life when a man discerns the approach of some calamitous event; such a time came to me of a hot Saturday morning, as we were icing the Schaefer beer for the day's fishing ahead. My uneasiness centered about Captain Abah, asleep in his cabin since Thursday night—he swore he had contracted sleeping sickness in a battle with Mopy Dick, the Lazy Whale, and I found myself beset by the fear Abah would attempt vengeance.

The natural ebullience of our fishing party, gentlemen from the city of the Mahatteos, mounted even higher when they espied the Schaefer all agleam in ice and sunlight. "Ah!" cried one, "it is evident you know what is heard in the best of circles!" "Aye, sir," said Moonbuck, our first mate, "Schaefer all around!"

Suddenly a sleepy-eyed Captain Abah was in our midst. "Blood and thunder," he yawned, "today I wreak my hate upon Mopy Dick. Full speed ahead for the open sea."

Only Moonbuck made bold to ease the man. "Drink this Schaefer, my captain, and think on the wisdom of your move. Savor the smooth round taste—never sharp, never flat."

"I thirst only for revenge," he mumbled drowsily, but he took the proffered beer and stumbled wearily to his cabin. Perhaps in his dreams he vanquished Mopy Dick or was vanquished by him. I never knew, but I think it all had some great, allegorical meaning. The Peapod and Abah and Mopy Dick and the Schaefer were symbolic of something surely—something as mysterious and enduring as the rise and fall of the sea.
